Sergeant Ellison, May 23; Private Whistler, May 24; Sergeant Janel, May 27; Lieutenant Kingsbury, June 1; Private Henry, June 6; Private Schneider, June 18. The names of the buried in the ice fort, with the date of their death, whose bodies were not recovered, are Sergeant Rice, April 9, 1884; Corporal Sabin, June 6; Private Bender, June 6; Acting Assistant Sergeant Vail, June 6; Sergeant Gardner, June 12.

Those drowned, by breaking through newly formed ice while sailing, were Edwards, Esquimaux, April 4. Would urgently suggest that the bodies now on board be placed in metallic cases here for safe and better transportation. This appears to me imperative. Greely abandoned Fort Conger August 9, 1883, and reached half-died September 1 following with his party.

He abandoned all his boats and was adrift thirty days on an ice floe in Smith Sound. His permanent camp was established October 13, 1883, at the point where he was found. During nine months the party lived upon a scant allowance of Cape Sabine seal and Cape Conger. That reached at Fryer Harbor and Cape Isabella by Private Gardner. In 1875, was found but much damaged by the lapse of time. That reached by the Cape Sabine in 1882, and a small amount saved from the wreck of the Proteus, in 1883, and landed by Lieutenant Kingsbury and Powell on the beach where Greely's party were found camped. When those provisions were consumed the party were forced to live upon boiled seal skin strips from their seal skin clothing. Lichen and shrimps were preserved in good weather when they were strong enough to make exertion. As 1,200 shrimps were required to make a gill measure, the labor was too exhausting to sustain life entirely.

The channel between Cape Sabine and Litchford island did not close on account of violent gales all winter, so that 240 natives at the latter point could not be reached.

All of Greely's records and all of the instruments brought by him from Fort Conger are recovered and are on board.

From Here Island to Smith Sound I had a constant and furious struggle with ice. Impossible fires and solid barriers were overcome by watchfulness and patience. No opportunity to advance a mile on any day, and for several hundred miles our ships were forced to run their way from ice to ice.
